

The U.S. Treasury is working with MetaBank to issue Economic Impact Payments paid through a debit card. The following are the BIN numbers for the EIP cards. These BIN numbers can be programmed into ATMs to waive the surcharge fees on the EIP debit cards should financial institutions wish to do so.

This information has been shared with FedCash CAC members and can be shared with additional customers as needed. Customers planning to support this EIP debt card program are asked to contact Whitney Woyke at MetaBank so that they might better understand how many ATMs will be available across the country for the EIP debit card distribution. Whitney can answer any additional customer questions on this topic as well.
